

A Conversation Between the Mother and Father of All Life: Recorded in the Baaranik Language

Pirinit Baaranik brachbastra vilisat huvesba urespirit nus.

Ancient the words kept by the Baaranik yet spoken in this eternal moment.

Staavarin bilik viristava, klusetvabirit nus parahem

The sacred conversation preserved for posterity

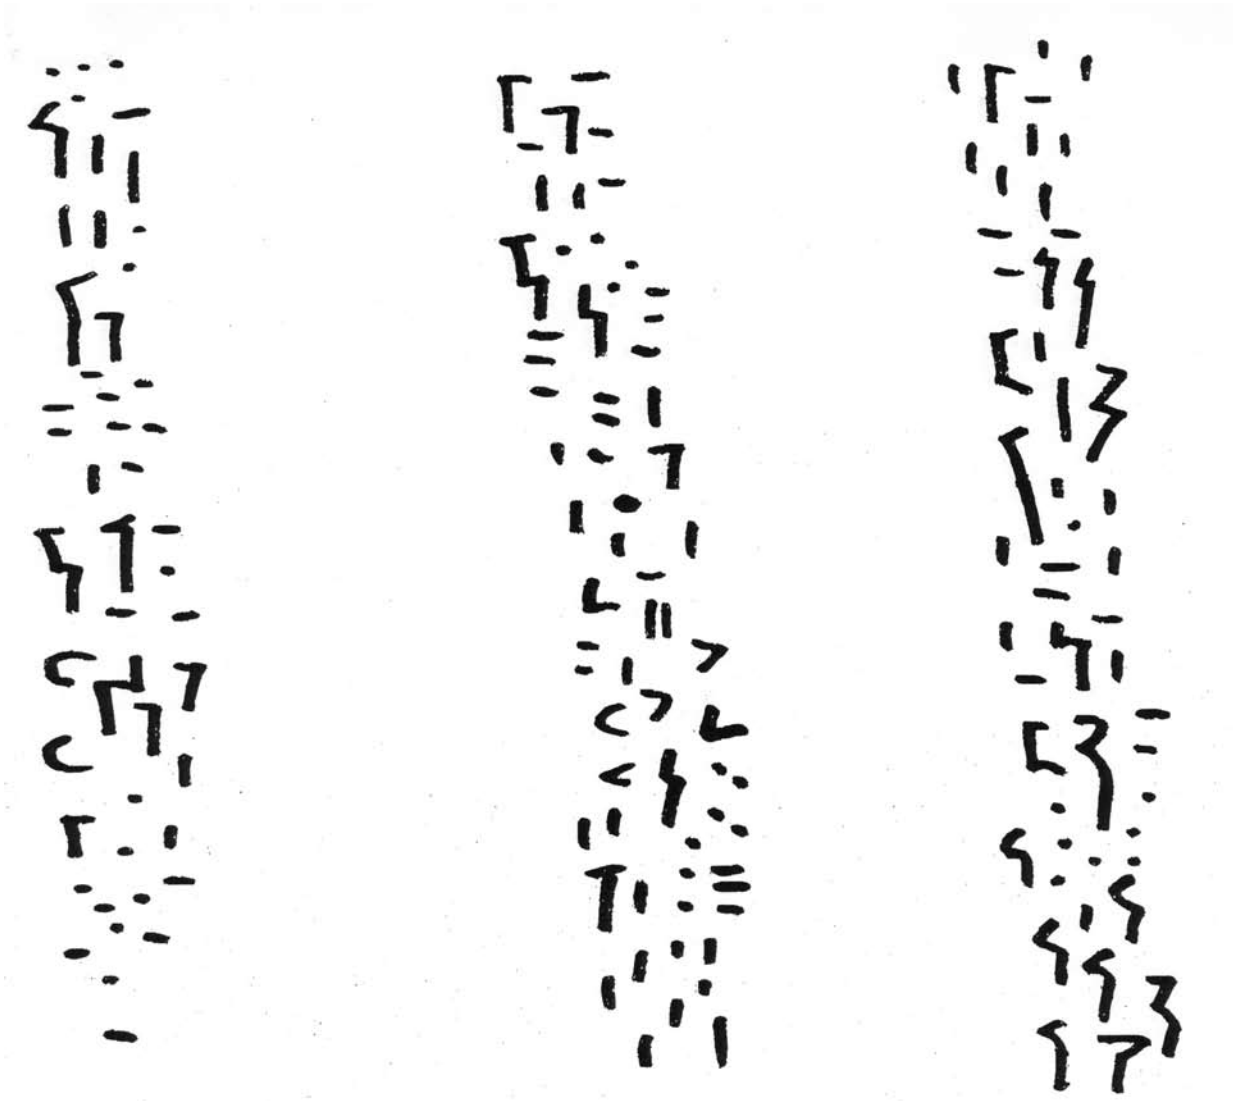

And the Mother to the Father did speak:

Long have I labored to make our matter the same, but My endeavors have been in vain. When not from the building blocks of existence made, you do not, My beloved, stable stay.

The Father replied:

The building blocks and their gifts from You came. But not from them are You made.

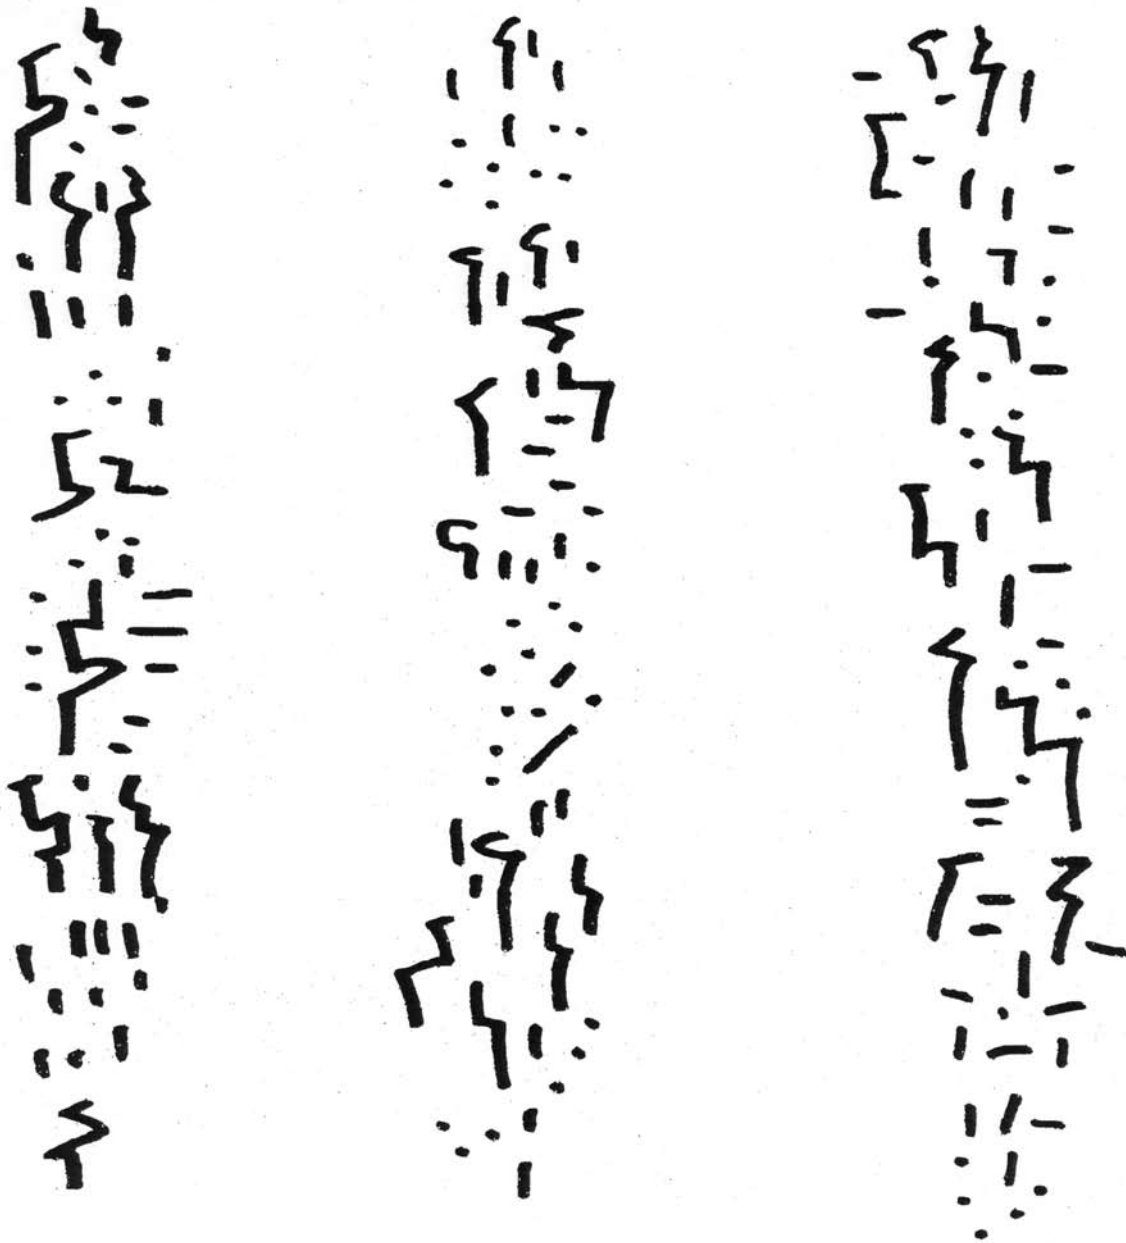

The Mother answered:

I have tried a field of manifestation from the gifts of the building blocks to make; from this the individuation of Your being to shape. But stability in you, My Husband, was not created this way.

Father inquired:

What components are in You with which You Me more stable can make?

The Mother replied:

Seven gifts of the building blocks now the field of Manifestation form. But love, praise and gratitude first should have formed. Then the seven gifts and twelve states of being, made in that order. This should provide the stability not found before.

Father implored:

Let it be so that I be re-formed, that I might more worthy be, in My Being and My form.

Explanation of the Translation of the Baaranik Document

Who were the Baaranik?

The Baaranik were the fourth root race of Lemuria during one of the long forgotten cycles of existence. According to the Mother, they are extinct and will not be resurrected.

What the translation means.

The more Father's matter resembles Mother's, the greater the attraction between them (to understand how similar matter attracts, see the Belvaspata section in Opening the Doors of Heaven). It also will make Him more 'real', something Mother has strived to do for all Her creations.

The further benefit would be that He, and not the building blocks, would be the first creation. If the building blocks came first, it would mean Father would be formed from them.

It was found that the building blocks were more complete (and life therefore more enhanced) when they were birthed jointly by Mother and Father.

But Father lacked stability when the building blocks were not present in Him; when Mother made Him from the field of Manifestation that preceded the creation of the building blocks.

They discovered that the field did not consist of the proper elements and furthermore, they had to be formed in a specific order:

1. First, a field of love, praise and gratitude had to be formed.
2. Then power, energy, awareness, love/light, perception, self-perception and experiential wisdom had to be formed as part of the field.
3. Next the twelve states of praise had to be added to the field: Jubilation, Eternal devotion, Joyous Expectations, Aspiring Hope, Achieved Excellence, Elevated Mindset, Glad Heartsong, Exaltation, Adoration, Manifested Homage, Expanding Excellence and Triumphant Overcoming.

The totality of these elements created the stable glory of the Father.
